Rev. 5/30/17

Music/Lyrics by Joe Iconis
Arr/Orch by Charlie Rosen

SQUIP: And I will. In time. She is only human. I must account for human error.

JEREMY: You were supposed to make everything better. So why isn't it?

SQUIP: Look at yourself. [MUSIC]

SQUIP: You dress better, you are 93% more attractive, you have had more experience with the opposite sex. Which is to say: you've had experience with the opposite sex. But human activity is matter of input as well as output.

JEREMY: What does that mean?

SQUIP: The fault... is in your peers. [GO ON]
